Anton Schmaus: new ambassador for V-ZUG in Germany

The Swiss kitchen appliance manufacturer, V-ZUG, has a new brand ambassador: 34-year-old Anton Schmaus, “Chef of the Year 2015”, is now the brand’s representative in Germany. His restaurant “Storstad” in Regensburg, Bavaria, is the proud owner of an MSLQ, the new multi-functional steam cooker from V-ZUG.

Down-to-earth yet at home anywhere in the world: Anton Schmaus is an ideal ambassador for the Swiss brand V-ZUG in Germany. The 34-year-old, who grew up in a family of restaurateurs in the Bavarian Forest, learned his trade through classical teaching. His early wanderings took him to Switzerland, Sweden and the US, where he discovered new ideas and ways of thinking.

Today, Anton Schmaus and his wife Anna work for themselves running the restaurant “Storstad” (Swedish for big city) in Regensburg (Bavaria), which quickly found its way onto the epicurean radar. Shortly after the restaurant opened in June 2014, the “Guide Michelin” awarded it one star while “GaultMillau” gave it 17 points and named Anton Schmaus “Newcomer of the Year 2015” in Germany.

In his restaurant with its cosmopolitan air, bar, roof-terrace lounge and attractive view of the old town and Gothic cathedral, Anton Schmaus serves fare that is easily accessible while nevertheless boasting that special something, be it a taste of the Far East (winter codfish with kimchi stock) or an additional fruit ingredient (Norway lobster with jackfruit). “All in all,” says Schmaus, “I’m a down-to-earth Bavarian.” His aim is to prepare dishes that taste good and that are meant for the stomach and not for the mind. That’s why the portions are a little bigger and there are not quite as many courses on the menu.

Anton Schmaus’ kitchen recently installed a Combi-Steam MSLQ from V-ZUG. The all-rounder from Central Switzerland masters a number of heating methods including steam-cooking accurate to the degree, all known baking processes, microwaving and – a world’s first – a combination of different operating modes. For example, sous-vide cooking processes can be accelerated by means of the finely-dosed application of microwaves. Schmaus uses this technique to cook clams to perfection in four minutes. “It works perfectly,” says the chef.
